Customize Advantage collections

Your Advantage account is currently maintaining its own collections in Sora. This means that if your consortium adds a new collection to Sora, it won’t be added for your end-users.

Maintaining curated collections

- To edit a curated collection from your consortium, you’ll need to delete it, then edit the draft of it saved under "Draft collections."
- Once you delete a curated collection from your consortium (to create a draft and edit it), it won’t be updated when your consortium changes it.
- Any curated collection from your consortium that isn’t deleted or edited will be updated whenever they make changes.

Maintaining automated collections

- You can edit automated collections from your consortium without deleting them first.
- Automated collections from your consortium aren't being updated when your consortium changes them.

To automatically display the same collections as your consortium instead, change this setting to No.

When you select No

You should see your name, your school name, and your shared collection name.
